THE COVER FLOWER

C. japonica 'Tiffany'

This month's cover flower is the 1964 winner of the Margarete Hertrich Award for Best Japonica Seedling of the Southern California Camellia Society. The seedling was first propagated by Dr. John H. Urabec of La Canada, California. It was entered in the competition for All American Camellia and according to reports was high in contention for the Award when All America Selections, Inc. folded. Prior to 1962 when its registered name was bestowed on it, the flower was known as the "Urabec" seedling. It was introduced to the market in the fall of 1963. Color is light orchid pink running to deeper color towards the outer edge. Form is loose peony to anemone with flower size that betters 5" and a depth of over 3 inches.
