THE COVER FLOWER

The cover flower is named 'Harvey Short's Finale.' It is a chance C. japonica seedling originated by the late Harvey Short, who lived in La Mesa, California. The cultivar has been propagated and will be released on October 15, 1983 by the San Diego Camellia Society. The bloom is a very large, pure white, semi-double with deep yellow anthers and filaments. The plant has a vigorous, upright growth and it blooms mid-season to late. Please refer to the article in this issue on page 20 — "Harvey Short Remembered" — for further details.
